JOHN CADE'S FOLLOWERS IN KENT.

BY WILLIAM DURRANT COOPER, F.S.A.

A MEETING of the Kent Archæological Society at Ashford would have been incomplete, if there had been no notice taken of the great rising in 1450 of the "Commons of Kent," under Cade, their "captain," who has been called (though erroneously) "the Tanner of Ashford."

Ashford and its neighbourhood was undoubtedly the heart of the rising, and it was generally supported throughout the Lathe of Scray, as it was also in the Lathes of Aylesford and Sutton at Hone. There were comparatively few places in the Lathe of Shepway, from whence adherents were drawn to the cause; and, with the exception of the Hundreds of Eastry, Petham, Preston, Wingham, and the Isle of Thanet, the Lathe of St. Augustine was free from the rising.

The particulars relating to this rising,—the dates of the chief events, the station of the persons engaged, the extent of the districts in Kent, Sussex, Surrey, and Essex, from which contingents came, and the time of the pardons under which the great body dispersed,—have all been involved in doubt and obscurity. Yet the Patent Roll of 28th Hen. VI. (part 2, m. 13, etc.) contains the materials for supplying many of these wanting particulars. It has upon it the names of many hundreds of forces of the therein acknowledged "John Mortimer's" followers, who were pardoned, and in most cases their designations and trades.

It has been admitted, indeed, that Cade drew to himself some "tall men" of this county; yet it is not known how many were of old and good families, many remaining to this day. It is worth while at the outset to give their names.

There was 1 Knight—

*Cheyne, John, of East Church, in the Isle of Sheppey.

<sup>1</sup> He married the daughter and heir of — Worsley, of Sloworthe, and their heiress Margaret married William Cotton.

Atte Wood, Hugh, of Yalding.
 Kelsham, Thomas.
 Brenheley, Walter, of Denynden.

The names of the yeomen are very numerous, and several of them have risen to the rank of gentry, such as the Courthopes, Tonges, Springetts, and Woodgates; whilst a portion of the old names, such as the Septvans, now lost, were then to be found.

It was not a disorganized mob, nor a chance gathering. In several Hundreds the constables duly, and as if legally, summoned the men; and many parishes, particularly Marden, Penshurst,<sup>1</sup> Hawkhurst, Northfleet, Boughton-Malherbe, Smarden, and Pluckley, furnished as many men as could be found, in our own day, fit for arms. Among those pardoned are the towns of Canterbury, Chatham, Maidstone, Rochester, and Sandwich; John Browne, the Bailiff of Folkestone, and John Cockeram, the Mayor of the new town of Queenborough; the constables of the Hundreds of Eastry, Petham, Preston, Ringslowe,<sup>2</sup> and Wingham, in the Lathe of St. Augustine; of Chatham, Gillingham, Hoo, Littlefield, Maidstone, Shamwell, Twyford, and Wrotham, in the Lathe of Aylesford; of Boughton-under-Chart, Longbridge, Felborough, Milton, and Teynham, in the Lathe of Scray; of Langport, in the Lathe of Shepway; of Dartford, Blackheath, Bromley, Beckenham, Codsheath, Lessness, Ruxley, and Somerden, in the Lathe of Sutton at Hone.

In East Greenwich and Dartford, which were close to the Camp at Blackheath, the wives of many men were included in the pardons, having doubtless entertained the men assembled in arms.<sup>3</sup>

In Sussex the Abbot of Battle and the Prior of Lewes participated in the rising; but in Kent the only names of ecclesiastics which appear are five, viz.

Clerke, John, Parson of the Church of Halgeste, in the Hundred of Hoo, in three pardons.

Changle, Thomas, of Yalding.

Spencer, Henry, Chaplain of Cowling.

Boteler, John, of Boughton Malherbe.

Penyngton, William, Chaplain of Osprynge.

And two "Holy-water clerks," being the persons who carried the holy water.

Among the occupations are some which mark the transition of the English language; thus Butchers, in most parishes, are in others called Fleshers; Cordwainer and Corvesor are used indiscriminately; Sonderer, otherwise Baker or New Baker; Ripiers, who carried the fish to London; Ferrou for farrier, and Putter for the carriers of wood to make charcoal. One notary and one scrivener, are here; one goldsmith, from Maidstone, and one trumpeter, from Holingbourne. The fullers and tanners are also here, and chapmen, haberdashers, drapers, mercers, tailors, and glovers; chandlers, and wax- and tallow-chandlers; grocers, spicers, and bakers; braziers, tinkers, sawyers, carpenters, masons, tilers, thatchers, turners, smiths, coopers, and saddlers; of barbers, more than a dozen; and brewers, innholders, vintners, and taverners; a solitary hackney-man, two grooms, and a servant. As might be anticipated in a maritime county, there are shipmen, watermen, and mariners. The manufactures are represented by clothmakers and weavers in Smarden and Pluckley. In many parishes the occupations are not given, but the main force consisted of husbandmen and labourers.

It is incorrectly stated by Holinshed that the men abruptly withdrew themselves and deserted Cade so soon as they were shown pardons by the Chancellor (Kempe) and the Bishop of Winchester (Waynfleete). The Chronicle of William of Wyrcester (p. 76 et seq.) gives the correct detail of the negotiation with Cade in the church of St. Margaret, Southwark, on the 6th July (the morning after the indecisive fight on London Bridge). Cade is designated John Mortimer in his pardon, which is dated on (Monday) the very day of the negotiations, as appears by the Patent Roll. On the same day are dated the pardons for John Robynson, William Bygge, Simon Morley, and John Swayn, of the city of Canterbury; but the remainder of the pardons bear date the following day (Tuesday), 7th July.

The number of names entered on the Patent Roll shows that accurate muster-rolls must have been kept; and the appearance of the same parish in different parts of the roll may indicate that the persons took part in the two different parts of the rising, for two parts there were.

Kent had been discontented in the early part of the year 1450. Thomas Cheyney, a fuller, of Canterbury, "calling himself an heremite cleped Blew-berd," had been taken on 9th February, at Canterbury, for raising a rebellion.<sup>1</sup> He was executed, and his head ordered to be sent to that city; but so great was his popularity, that the sheriffs of London had much difficulty in conveying it, "as unneth any persones durst nor wolde take upon hem the caridge,"<sup>2</sup> for doubt of their lives.

The Duke of Suffolk was taken off Dover on 2nd May, and killed. Lord Say, who lived at Knole, was lord-lieutenant, his son-in-law, William Crowmer, was sheriff, and the threats they held out against the "commons of Kent" brought matters to a crisis.

I give the several dates from the Chronicle of William of Wyrcester.

Whitsunday was on 24th May, and in that week the insurrection of the commons of Kent alone began. On 1st June, the camp was fixed at Blackheath; on Sunday, 7th, the king came to London, and on the 11th set out against the rebels. But they had decamped in the night, and retired to Sevenoaks. They were followed by two Staffords, who, with twenty-four followers, were killed at Sevenoaks. The king then went to Kenilworth. At the end of the month, Cade and his followers were joined by strong contingents from Sussex and Surrey. They made a second march to Blackheath. On Friday, 3rd July, they entered London city, and were met by a good number from Essex. On 4th, James de Fynes, Lord de Say, and his son-in-law, Crowmer, were beheaded at the Standard in Chepe. The citizens were pillaged, and on the night of Sunday, 5th July, they rose and fought Cade and his men on London Bridge.

On the morning of the 6th began the negotiations with Cade for "a charter of pardon from the king for them all;" but as a preliminary, Cade insisted and obtained the acceptance by the Chancellor and Bishop Waynfleet of the Bill of Petitions, which had been refused by the Privy Council. The complaints of the commons of Kent comprised fifteen heads; they are printed at length in Stow's Annals, p. 388, and the following are the particular grievances of the county:—

1. It is openly noysed that Kent should be destroyed with royll power, and made a wild forest, for the death of the Earl of Suffolke, of which the commons were never guilty.

And after complaining that the king lived on his commons, whilst his own revenues were held by other men; that the lords of the royal blood had been put out of his presence,<sup>1</sup> and other mean persons of lower nature exalted to be of his Privy Council; that the stuff and purveyance for the king's household had not been paid for; that people were impeached and indicted to have grants obtained of their land; that divers poor people and commons of the realm, having perfect title to their land, had that title impeached and could not pursue their right; that the king's lands in France had been alienated; and requiring that the traitors who did it should be punished,—they say,—

8. Collectors of the 15 peny in Kent be greatly vexed and hurt in paying great sums of money in the Exchequer to sue out a writ called Quorum nomina, for allowance of the barons of the ports, which now is desired that hereafter in the lieu of the collectors the barons aforesaid may sue it out for their ease at their own costs.<sup>1</sup>

And then, having complained of the excessive surety or bail taken by the sheriffs; and of feigned indictments against simple and poor people that use not hunting; and of the returns of amerciaments called “the Green Ware,” without summons or warning; they proceed:—

12. The ministers of the Court of Dover, in Kent, vex and arrest divers people through all the shire, out of castle-ward, passing bands (bounds) and liberty used of old time, by divers subtle and untrue means and actions falsely fined, taking great fee at their lust, in great hurt of the people in all their shire of Kent.

13. The people of the said shire of Kent may not have their free election in the choosing of knights of the shire, but letters have been sent from divers estates to the great rulers of all the country, the which enforceth their tenants and other people by force to choose other persons than the common will is.<sup>2</sup> and the Dukes of Excester, Buckenham, and Norfolk, as persons who ought to be on the Privy Council. (Stow, Annals, p. 389.)

<sup>2</sup> The right of election for counties, which, like the present election of coroners, had been in all the freeholders, had been limited by an Act of

14. Whereas knights of the shire should choose the king's collectors indifferently, without any bribe-taking; they have sent now late to divers persons, notifying to them to be collectors, whereupon gifts and bribes be taken, and so the collector's office is bought and sold extortionously at the knight's lust.<sup>1</sup>

15. The people be sore vexed in costs and labour, called to the sessions of peace in the said shire, appearing from the farthest and uttermost parts of the west into the east, the which causeth to some men five days' journey; whereupon they desire the said appearance to be divided into two parts,<sup>2</sup> the which one part to appear in one place, another part in another place; in relieving of the grievance and intolerable labours and vexations of the said people.

Cade also charged Stephen Slegg, who was the sheriff in the previous year (1449), William Isle, who twice represented the county, and Robert Est, as being extortioners.

This is not the place to comment on the political importance of the demands made, nor can we now judge of the accuracy of the complaints; all that I need remark is the wide difference between them and the travestie of them given by Shakspeare.

On receiving the pardons, the main body of the commons dispersed, but Cade alleged that the pardons were insufficient without the sanction of Parliament (they are undoubtedly tested at Westminster, where the king was not), and persuaded a remnant of his followers to remain in arms. He retired with them to Rochester, having previously sent there the plate, jewels, and money, which had been taken during the rising. They failed in an attack upon Queenborough Castle, which this reign, 8 Hen. VI. c. 7 (1430), to freeholders who could expend 40s., equivalent to £20 now.

was successfully defended by Sir Roger Chamberleyn<sup>1</sup> and two men. Geoffrey Kechyn and another, called "Capitaignes Boucher," were taken; and a third, William Parmenter, also calling himself "a captain of Kent," with other principals, were placed in the custody of Thomas Waryn, and then sent to the Castles of Windsor and Winchester.<sup>2</sup>

The followers quarrelled over the plunder. Cade fled about 11th July, and was taken at Heathfield, in Sussex, between that day and the 15th, when his dead body was brought to the Council. His head was stuck on London Bridge, and his body quartered. One quarter was sent to Blackheath; a second to Norwich, where the Bishop (Walter Harp) was supposed to favour the cause of the Duke of York; a third to Salisbury; and the fourth to Gloucester, the Abbot of St. Peter's there being also a favourer of the cause.<sup>3</sup> Two followers of Cade were also beheaded; the quarters of one, Nicholas Jakes, were sent to Chichester, Rochester, Portsmouth, and Colchester; and those of John Rammesey, wine drawer, to Stamford, Coventry, Newbury, and Winchester,<sup>4</sup> showing how widely spread were the opinions of the "commons of Kent." In their own county they were not perfectly quiet. Led on by Robert Poynings, uncle of the Countess of Northumberland, and Cade's "carver and sword-bearer," they caused a riot at Westersham, on 21st January, 1453; and they rode "in riotous-wise, and arraied in manor of warre," with sakes, coats of mail, and salettes, to North Cray and Fremingham, on 16th and 17th March, 1454.<sup>5</sup>

On Cade's flight, the Lord Chancellor Kempe went to Rochester, "for the tranquillity and good government of the King there, and also for the seizure of certain goods" which had been taken at Rochester.<sup>1</sup> There was £105. 15s. in cash and the goods, a list of which has been printed in Calendars and Inventories of Memoranda of the Treasury of the Exchequer (vol. ii. p. 217) produced £274. 8s. 4d., out of which £40 were given to the citizens and bailiffs of Rochester, to make the east gate of that city towards Canterbury.<sup>2</sup>
